To use any printer other than the TS 2040 (the Timex printer), a special interface is necessary (at the moment, I'm not sure where one might be available).

Whether using the Timex printer, or a different kind with an interface, it is just plugged in the rear expansion port.
The connecting cable, however, will have an additional male connector into which the 16K RAM expansion, among other peripherals, may be inserted.

Best of luck.
