The near future, in a quiet seaside town. Yoshioka, who had recently lost his wife, just wants to spend the rest of his days in peace. However, Yoshioka's children, worried about their father's health, sent a housekeeping robot to help him. Yoshioka's quiet life is now changing.

Well it is a robot who looks like a cute girl maid but has worked in housekeeping for over 30 years and will be sent to salvage and turned into 500 yen coins after completion of her assignment. He resents Ponko's presence but does not want it turned into 500 yen coins. He does get more active though after Ponko shows up. The name is disrespectful and short for useless heap of garbage and Ponko does not like it.

In chapter 5 we learn that Yoshioka's late wife had chosen the robot who had helped take care of her at the hospital.

This is a very good robot manga and touching at times but a worthwhile amusement. Humor comes from the old man's responses to the robot.
