If the magazines are not on Internet Archive, donate them so they will be scanned.

Yes I would be. What sort of things do you have? I have a large collection here already.

Hi James. Another collector has already asked me about the mags. I can get back with you if he changes his mind. Thanks for the interest.

If I weren't such a packrat, I'd probably ask for a few mags. But, I won't be.

Hi James,
The other person backed out. Are you still interested in so or all of the mags?

Hi James. Are you still interested in my magazines? Appears the other person may have changed their mind.

Hi again,

Okay, all the mags are trashed. I hated to do that but had no choice. I wish I could have found a home for them.

I used to, before the horrors of CoVid, take my old magazines around to any place with a "waiting room" - Doctor's offices, dentist's, medical clinics, oil change places, etc.

They were newer (even if old to me) and more interesting than what was already there.

Not just confuser magazines. Also automobiles, motorcycles, cooking, etc. And Mother Earth News. Bv)=

.... Amiga made it possible. Commodore made it dead.

I wished I knew about this sooner. How many were you talking about? If we could have figured a reasonable shipping amount/pickup I probably would have grabbed them. I am in the U.S. as well.
