
Subject: Jean Jackson, RIP

Posted by Chris \"Sampo&q on Thu, 03 Jan 2013 19:13:48 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Just received an email from Jean's daughter that she passed quietly yesterday. Jean was a stalwart MSTie, an incredibly funny person, a talented artist and one of the most sensible people I've ever encountered. She will be greatly missed.

Sampo (there are no words)

Subject: Re: Jean Jackson, RIP

Posted by nebusj- on Fri, 04 Jan 2013 17:25:19 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

In <msampo-67E99B.14133703012013@news.individual.net> "Chris \"Sampo\" Cornell" <msampo@aol.com> writes:

> Just received an email from Jean's daughter that she passed quietly > yesterday. Jean was a stalwart MSTie, an incredibly funny person, a > talented artist and one of the most sensible people I've ever > encountered. She will be greatly missed.

> Sampo (there are no words)

There's not, but I could growl inarticulately at the year deciding to start off like this.

--

<http://nebusresearch.wordpress.com/>

Joseph Nebus

Current Entry: The Most Common Jeopardy! Response? <http://wp.me/p1RYhY-nC>

Subject: Re: Jean Jackson, RIP

Posted by Judith on Fri, 04 Jan 2013 18:04:15 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

In article <kc739v$ho7$1@reader1.panix.com>, nebusj-@-rpi-.edu (Joseph Nebus) wrote:

> In <msampo-67E99B.14133703012013@news.individual.net> "Chris \"Sampo\" Cornell" <msampo@aol.com> writes:

>

>> Just received an email from Jean's daughter that she passed quietly >> yesterday. Jean was a stalwart MSTie, an incredibly funny person, a >> talented artist and one of the most sensible people I've ever >> encountered. She will be greatly missed.

>
>> Sampo (there are no words)
>
> There's not, but I could growl inarticulately at the year > deciding to start off like this.

This is very sad. Jean was only in her 60's. How did she die, Chris?

Judith

--

Stop waving that crow in my face. He's our landlord!
--Gritpyppe-Thynne

Subject: Re: Jean Jackson, RIP
Posted by Chris \"Sampo&q on Sat, 05 Jan 2013 00:48:38 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

In article <JUJU-0D26FA.13041504012013@free.teranews.com>,
Judith <JUJU@withouta.net> wrote:

> In article <kc739v$ho7$1@reader1.panix.com>,
> nebusj-@-rpi.edu (Joseph Nebus) wrote:
>
>> In <msampo-67E99B.14133703012013@news.individual.net> "Chris \"Sampo\" >> Cornell" <msampo@aol.com> writes:
>>
>>> Just received an email from Jean's daughter that she passed quietly >>> yesterday. Jean was a stalwart MSTie, an incredibly funny person, a >>> talented artist and one of the most sensible people I've ever >>> encountered. She will be greatly missed.
>>
>>> Sampo (there are no words)
>>
>> There's not, but I could growl inarticulately at the year >> deciding to start off like this.
>
> This is very sad. Jean was only in her 60's. How did she die, Chris?
>
> Judith

I don't know, sorry.

Sampo (the email was terse)

Subject: Re: Jean Jackson, RIP
Posted by Doug Elrod on Sat, 05 Jan 2013 17:56:15 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

On Thursday, January 3, 2013 2:13:48 PM UTC-5, Chris Sampo Cornell wrote:

- > Just received an email from Jean's daughter that she passed quietly
- > yesterday. Jean was a stalwart MSTie, an incredibly funny person, a
- > talented artist and one of the most sensible people I've ever
- > encountered. She will be greatly missed.
- >
- > Sampo (there are no words)

Thanks for putting up some pics of her AMAZING MST3K-themed art at <http://www.mst3kinfo.com/?p=14469>

She will be missed!

-Doug Elrod (dre1@cornell.edu)
RIP, Jean....

Subject: Re: Jean Jackson, RIP
Posted by George Johnson on Wed, 09 Jan 2013 01:54:46 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

"Chris "Sampo" Cornell" <msampo@aol.com> wrote in message news:msampo-67E99B.14133703012013@news.individual.net...

- > Just received an email from Jean's daughter that she passed quietly
- > yesterday. Jean was a stalwart MSTie, an incredibly funny person, a
- > talented artist and one of the most sensible people I've ever
- > encountered. She will be greatly missed.
- >
- > Sampo (there are no words)

Been offline in the Newsgroup zone since Charter decided to "stop supporting NNTP" since Nov 13, 2012.

Sorry to read about her passing so late.

The world needs all the talented artists it can gain.
I hope her family the best in this rough time.

Subject: Re: Jean Jackson, RIP
Posted by andramarquardt on Thu, 10 Jan 2013 02:58:15 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

On Thursday, January 3, 2013 1:13:48 PM UTC-6, Chris Sampo Cornell wrote:

- > Just received an email from Jean's daughter that she passed quietly

>
> yesterday. Jean was a stalwart MSTie, an incredibly funny person, a
>
> talented artist and one of the most sensible people I've ever
>
> encountered. She will be greatly missed.
>
>
>
> Sampo (there are no words)

No words, indeed, but I'm going to give it a go anyway.

Jean, my mom, passed away very quickly and painlessly, we believe from a blood clot to either her heart or her brain, so quickly in fact she didn't have time to press her Life Alert button. I think we wish we could all go that way, and I know it's how she wanted to go.

It was unexpected to be sure, which is why my original email was so short. It's a lot to process, and even a week later I still expect that occasional phone call, funny email, or a happy hello whenever we go to her house.

All of you meant the world to her. She talked about many of you, and considered MSTies her family. Her biggest joy besides painting (which she started at 12 years old) was bringing you joy with her artwork. Many times I caught her staring into space, and I would smile because I knew she was thinking about what she would be painting next.

Her final wishes did include giving Satellite News her remaining prints (of which there are hundreds) and electronic copies for even more prints, because she wanted to continue to make all of you happy even after she was gone..

The best part is reading here and at Satellite News about how much you enjoyed her and her artwork. As her daughter I didn't get to see all the things she did in her life, and it's both inspiring and touching to know how much of a positive difference she made in people's lives. I'm thrilled to know her legacy -- her joys and her passions -- will continue for many years to come.

To me that makes her still very much alive to me, and I have you to thank for it.

God Bless,

Andra

Subject: Re: Jean Jackson, RIP
Posted by andramarquardt on Thu, 10 Jan 2013 03:12:06 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Oh, and if you have any questions, please don't hesitate to ask.

Subject: Re: Jean Jackson, RIP
Posted by Bookworm on Thu, 10 Jan 2013 13:27:14 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

On Wednesday, January 9, 2013 8:58:15 PM UTC-6, andrama...@gmail.com wrote:

> On Thursday, January 3, 2013 1:13:48 PM UTC-6, Chris Sampo Cornell wrote:

>

>> Just received an email from Jean's daughter that she passed quietly

>

>>

>

>> yesterday. Jean was a stalwart MSTie, an incredibly funny person, a

>

>>

>

>> talented artist and one of the most sensible people I've ever

>

>>

>

>> encountered. She will be greatly missed.

>

>>

>

>>

>

>>

>

>> Sampo (there are no words)

>

>

>

> No words, indeed, but I'm going to give it a go anyway.

>

>

>

> Jean, my mom, passed away very quickly and painlessly, we believe from a blood clot to either her heart or her brain, so quickly in fact she didn't have time to press her Life Alert button. I think we wish we could all go that way, and I know it's how she wanted to go.

>

>

>

> It was unexpected to be sure, which is why my original email was so short.. It's a lot to process, and even a week later I still expect that occasional phone call, funny email, or a happy hello whenever we go to her house.

>

>

>

> All of you meant the world to her. She talked about many of you, and considered MSTies her family. Her biggest joy besides painting (which she started at 12 years old) was bringing you joy with her artwork. Many times I caught her staring into space, and I would smile because I knew she was thinking about what she would be painting next.

>

>

>

> Her final wishes did include giving Satellite News her remaining prints (of which there are hundreds) and electronic copies for even more prints, because she wanted to continue to make all of you happy even after she was gone.

>

>

>

> The best part is reading here and at Satellite News about how much you enjoyed her and her artwork. As her daughter I didn't get to see all the things she did in her life, and it's both inspiring and touching to know how much of a positive difference she made in people's lives. I'm thrilled to know her legacy -- her joys and her passions -- will continue for many years to come.

>

>

>

> To me that makes her still very much alive to me, and I have you to thank for it.

>

>

>

> God Bless,

>

>

>

> Andra

Thank you for letting us know, and my heartfelt condolences to you and your family.

Bookworm

Subject: Re: Jean Jackson, RIP

Posted by Doug Elrod on Sat, 12 Jan 2013 19:35:38 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

On Wednesday, January 9, 2013 10:12:06 PM UTC-5, andrama...@gmail.com wrote:

> Oh, and if you have any questions, please don't hesitate to ask.

There were several people through the years (including me) who were urging her to do something in the Thomas Kinkadee genre. Given that he died early last year, I wonder if Jean ever attempted it....

-Doug Elrod (dre1@cornell.edu)

Perhaps they're even now enjoying a fine beverage together, ala "Captain Stormfield's Visit to Heaven"

Subject: Re: Jean Jackson, RIP
Posted by andramarquardt on Sat, 12 Jan 2013 20:19:25 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

On Saturday, January 12, 2013 1:35:38 PM UTC-6, Doug Elrod wrote:
> On Wednesday, January 9, 2013 10:12:06 PM UTC-5, andrama...@gmail.com wrote:
>
>> Oh, and if you have any questions, please don't hesitate to ask.
>
>
>
> There were several people through the years (including me) who were urging her to do something in the Thomas Kinkadee genre. Given that he died early last year, I wonder if Jean ever attempted it...
>
>
>
> -Doug Elrod
>
> Perhaps they're even now enjoying a fine beverage together, ala "Captain Stormfield's Visit to Heaven"

She did not, at least not that I know of. She did tease about starting a new series, but refused to reveal what it was. Dang it.
