I don't mean to bore anyone with a really stupid question (which is my usual intro to a really *stupid* question), but i have seen a lot of references to technical info from a magazine (?) called Analog. I have been unable to find same anywhere locally, other than a fantasy/sci-fi pocket mag. So, where can i get a copy/subscription? All reasonable pointers will be appreciated. advTANXance, der

Their address for signing up is

Analog Computing

P.O. Box 625 (or 100 Pine St. for letter bombs)

Holmes, PA 19043.

Subscription prices as of March, 1986 are $28.00/1 yr., $52./2 yrs., $79./3 yrs. If you want to get their program disks also it is $60/six months, or $105/year. They say to allow 4 to 6 weeks delivery time for first issue.

Or, you can pick up your phone and call (800) 345-8112 (in PA (800) 662-2444).

For sending in programs, letters, etc., the address is P.O. Box 23, Worcester, MA 01603. Send SASE if you wish a reply.

Otherwise, check your local serious computer newsstand or local Atari dealer for newsstand copies.
