
Subject: Re: Is LINUX the inheritor of the Earth?

Posted by Andreas Kohlbach on Fri, 07 Dec 2018 21:50:19 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

On Fri, 7 Dec 2018 11:11:29 -0500, songbird wrote:

>
> Quadibloc wrote:
>> On Thursday, December 6, 2018 at 2:36:15 PM UTC-7, Andreas Kohlbach wrote:
>>> On Wed, 05 Dec 2018 19:00:48 -0500, Joy Beeson wrote:
>>>> On Wed, 05 Dec 2018 16:41:24 -0500, Andreas Kohlbach
>>>> <ank@spamfence.net> wrote:
>>
>>>> > Growing food to feed the world's population is an entirely different problem.
>>
>>>> Are you kidding? We literally have food to burn.
>>
>>> I don't understand what you are saying. Fry, bake, cook?
>>
>> Ethanol from corn, I suspect.
>
> no, actual burning of corn. it was a fad that has passed > for the most part. but otherwise also yes, many piles of > corn are being turned into ethanol for adding to gasoline.

Brazil (I mentioned in another article) uses sugar cane. No, not burning that itself, only the Ethanol they produce from it.

--

Andreas

My random thoughts and comments

<https://news-commentaries.blogspot.com/>
