

---

Subject: Re: Is LINUX the inheritor of the Earth?

Posted by Gerard Schildberger on Tue, 25 Dec 2018 05:21:31 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

On Monday, December 24, 2018 at 8:21:01 PM UTC-6, Gene Wirchenko wrote:

> On Mon, 24 Dec 2018 10:39:35 +0000, Ahem A Rivet's Shot wrote:

>

>> On 24 Dec 2018 04:46:32 -0400

>> Mike Spencer wrote:

>>

>>> Massachusetts, 1955, I was a kid with a part time job in a local >>> drugstore. Guy comes in, approaches the counter, looks all around, >>> mutters, "Three". Becomes agitated when I asked, "Three what?"

>>> Demands to see the pharmacist.

>>

>> Customer in the newsagent:

>>

>> 1970s: TWENTY MARLBORO ... <whisper>and a packet of condoms please</whisper>

>> 2000s: A PACKET OF CONDOMS PLEASE ... <whisper>and twenty marlboro</whisper>

>

> Where I work, we can not sell individual cigarettes - only packs.

>

> Sincerely,

>

> Gene Wirchenko

In the United States, selling cigarettes individually (or any number less than a "pack") is against the law. _____ Gerard Schildberger

---