
Subject: Re: Commodore Classifieds #10 - 11/16/92
Posted by Anonymous on Fri, 05 Aug 2022 15:27:25 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Originally posted by: phigan

> Prices from that list are interesting. Like an Amiga 1000 for $200 in > 1992. Suppose today you'd pay at least double.

Yeah I thought the same thing. Back around 1994 or 1995 I got my A500 for $100 at an Amiga store. Could have also (instead) gotten an SX-64 at the same store for $100.

Subject: Re: Commodore Classifieds #10 - 11/16/92
Posted by Anonymous on Sat, 06 Aug 2022 17:54:28 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Originally posted by: KP KP

On Friday, August 5, 2022 at 8:27:31 AM UTC-7, phigan wrote:

>> Prices from that list are interesting. Like an Amiga 1000 for $200 in >> 1992. Suppose today you'd pay at least double.

>
> Yeah I thought the same thing. Back around 1994 or 1995 I got my A500 for $100 > at an Amiga store. Could have also (instead) gotten an SX-64 at the same store > for $100.

100 bucks back then? Now they going for upwards of 1000 bucks for a fully kitted out.

Subject: Re: Commodore Classifieds #10 - 11/16/92
Posted by Anonymous on Sun, 07 Aug 2022 21:55:40 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Originally posted by: phigan

> 100 bucks back then? Now they going for upwards of 1000 bucks for a fully > kitted out.

Right? That's kinda why I'm kicking myself for not picking the other one. And I would've probably used it this whole time, too.. unlike the A500 which I have lost somewhere in my garage.

Subject: Re: Commodore Classifieds #10 - 11/16/92
Posted by Anonymous on Sun, 07 Aug 2022 22:28:39 GMT

Originally posted by: KP KP

On Sunday, August 7, 2022 at 2:55:43 PM UTC-7, phigan wrote:

>> 100 bucks back then? Now they going for upwards of 1000 bucks for a fully

>> kitted out.

> Right? That's kinda why I'm kicking myself for not picking the other > one. And I would've probably used it this whole time, too.. unlike the > A500 which I have lost somewhere in my garage.

I hear ya. I have my Amiga 3000 that my dad bought me new back in 1991. All the bells and whistles. It's all yellow now. I play lemmings on the machine.
