
Subject: Dooku for five minutes
Posted by Sandman on Thu, 19 Jul 2012 07:45:07 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

From Newsgroup: rec.arts.sf.starwars.misc

Haha, found this one.

It's me explaining some bad storytelling in the last Matrix movie, where some characters introduced in the second part have small or no parts in the final part, leaving me to question why they were in the second to begin with. It was written in 2003, after Attack of the Clones but before Revenge of the Sith, and I love this example here:

They all had typical introductory roles in M2, much like one could say the Emperor has in Empire Strikes Back or Count Dooku in Attack of the Clones.

...

I'm sure you'd be quite pissed if Count Dooku merely had a five minute scene in Episode 3?

Haha, and when Revenge came out? Dooku had a five minute scene. :-D

--
Sandman[.net]
--- Synchronet 3.13a-Win32 NewsLink 1.83
